What does it look like when you apply the craft of Interaction Design to the library experience? MFA IxD students from Year 0 have created public projects that engage us in new ways to approach inquiry. Developed by Professor Maria Mortati, this exhibition asks what happens if you invert how we search, browse, select? Where do you begin, or better yet, how? What can the role of play... play? What are the histories and futures as we merge campuses? As they have explored ways to for you to more richly engage with this incredible resource, their work suggests new design protocols for the library experience.
