

Digital Storytelling

The MFA in Writing program's Digital Storytelling course, taught in Spring 2016 by Faith Adiele, brought together graduate writers, artists and makers to hone their narrative skills and develop their own digital projects.

At the end of the semester the class presented their final works in the library and held a contest: Judges Leslie Roberts, Dean of Design, Juvenal Acosta, Dean of Writing and Humanities & Sciences, Faith Adiele, Associate Professor, Lisa Conrad, Digital Scholarship Librarian, and the audience voted for their favorite works.

The WINNERS, on exhibition through Summer 2016:

1st place - DeShara Suggs-Joe, for "This is a Poem for People Who Think They Can Heal Themselves"

2nd place - Melissa Lozano, for "Delicates"

Audience Favorite - Adam Parks, for "This Writing Life"

To View on iPad

- Tap thumbnail or title of project (e.g., "Delicates"), project will open, tap links to navigate through it
- To return to home page, tap the back arrow

* Projects may also be viewed online at <http://bit.ly/1V8fEad>